1. There is a considerable export of sugar and blue serge material of the type used for Kriegsmarine uniforms from the port of Wismar.
2. Large quantities of both commodities are shipped in Norwegian, Danish, and Finnish vessels to Leningrad. These vessels coal at Rostock, discharge at Leningrad, and then proceed to Finland and lay by till the next voyage. Of the numerous boats seen engaged on this trade, only one had a Russian crew. Informant worked for two months on Wismar docks loading sugar, but saw no warships in the port during this period.
